Reigns her majesty maze

If you've never played Reigns, the style may seem a bit odd. It's kind of like one of those dating apps like Tinder or something. I like it or don't like it. Except, it's politics. You are the queen of an entire kingdom, where the king (somewhat incompetent) is minimally in power. You make the decisions. Now, you have four stats. Call them Church, Popularity, Militia and Wealth. All these statistics will start in the middle. The key to survival is not to let any of these statistics hit either the bottom, or the top. For example: If your popularity reaches zero, it's knocked down by people. If your popularity gets too high, you are crushed by the adoration of fans trying to kiss your ring. You get the gist. The cards presented to you, most of the time, have effects on your statistics. For example, letting your maid marry will increase your church and popularity, but lower your Militia and wealth. I'm not saying something makes sense, but after playing a little bit you should be able to predict what the results of your actions will be. Throughout the game, you will receive five different items. The duel gun, the royal perfume, the chicken bone, the clock, and the blank spellbook. To get the blank spellbook, die three times. The All-Mother will give it to you. The chicken bone is given as a hunter's trophy. The Duel Pistol is given from the North (queen?) Warrior when meeting. The Royal Perfume is given at the beginning of the game. All / Most of these items can be updated. The chicken bone can be upgraded to a saint's bone by giving it to the church guy when he talks to you if your church gets to the max (a typical death). You can upgrade it to an iPhone (why, i don't know) by giving it to the Witch. The bone can be used, as far as I know, to get some sort of ending, (not yet achieved.) and to use it as a step to the nun. It happens are almost actions that jump through the use of elements. This can be good for skipping years without much difficulty. You can lift or lower your statistics by saying Yes or No when you ask if it is a bone of saint. The Duel Pistol can be used for dueling. No, no, no, no. You can duel a part of people dragging the gun on them (I'll pass duel later) Be careful, though, because ' sometimes you're just going to throw people and be really uncomfortable and also lower your stats. It depends on the person. The duettable people are, as far as I know: The Mirror, the first time. The king, even though he's laughing. The kind of Church, although he refuses. The Blank Spellbook cannot be used for anything by default, but eventually the Acolyote will ask for it, and if you give it to it, it will update it in the Red Spellbook. This can be used to talk to animals. These pairs will do it with the Zoo, and it is necessary for a + End. It can be improved later by the AllMother, although it does the same things. The Royal Perfume is very useful as it can be used to prevent certain deaths and to skip a little. This is one of a be sprayed to charm people, often, although it does not work in the king. Spraying it on the maid will prompt you to ask about your secret love, which can be repeated from end to end to principle to raise or lower certain statistics. You can also avoid two deaths, as far as I know. You can avoid running out of church, spraying when the Individual Church talks to you, and you can avoid running out of popularity in the same way. We warn you, however, if you use it too soon after you have used it before, they will catch up and you will still die. You can jump: The servant, although she asks for love, so some statistics change. The adventurer The hunter probably most idk The clock can be used to view/change its astrological symbol, and is used to sum the Eclipse, which causes one of the endings. It is received by this strange guy who looks like Weird AI / the Acolyote (I don't remember) At some point the Esquerlote will ask you to give it to them, and giving it will make you upgrade it to a target clock. You can use this as a leap for bait, and something happens if you use it in your own symbol I forget what Tho. Using another symbol will change yours to this. Throwing things Yes, I consider this a real part of the game. Throwing objects will often lower all your stats, although there is a chance that you will receive the witch, which from there can be said thank you, lifting all the statistics. This usually happens at least once before you get killed for being a mad person throwing. This can be useful if, for example, you are out of wealth and the king asks to escape. You can throw some objects, get the witch, for example, thank you, and then use the duel gun on the king. He'll laugh at it, have some statistics above coin 0 because of the witch, and he'll be back normally. Remember, if you throw too many items in times close to each other you will die. Get lost in the maze once you have the target clock. Follow the sun, which means going into the shadows, until you reach a sanctuary. Set the clock to summon the Eclipse. I'm not sure if you should die under mysterious circumstances or just die somehow, but it will trigger a final encounter with the AllMother before Queen Dissapears. 06:35Styxengörünüm 301 B0:5001:0440:3517:0404:0329:02Terraforming Mars - How to playWatch Playedgörünüm 285 B04:17Linda Eder - Topicgör 97 B0:501:4610:03TheMuratgörünüm 417 B19:126:17:31 Reigns: Her Majesty By: Devolver Digital One of the Most Difficult Goals (Royal Deeds) in Reigns: Her Majesty is Heavenly, who asks her to summon an eclipse. You also have to reach any of the endings. This guide will help you do this. Other reigning guides There are a number of steps you have to take first, but take you through all of them on my full walk. This guide is assuming that you have already done all of them and specifically with the announcement of the eclipse. From the beginning, you'll meet the All-Mother and tell you: In the maze of green, follow the sun to make it Once you have the mirror, gun and duel room, duel yourself in the mirror. The letter he shoots says: Hidden in the garden maze is a grand sacred crown: Follow the sun, dear child says... It's the All-Mother again, reminding her to follow the sun in the garden maze. When the All-Mother updates your spellbook in the heavenly spellbook, it also tells you to summon the eclipse to the maze. Well, the way she says she's not that direct. She tells him: In the center of the maze, scream black suntime. There, we'll meet again. You need the target clock and to get to the garden maze. Either the king will invite him to go with him or he can use the target clock on an animal and then follow him there. Once in the maze (or green garden), follow the sun. This means paying attention to the direction of shadows. It can be tricky at first, but you have to get the hang of it over time. Try to visualize where the sun would be shining to create each shadow. If there is no shade or sun or no difference between the roads, any of the roads is fine. And if you see a bench, I recommend sitting on it, but maybe it doesn't matter. If you do well, after about 10-15 cards you have to see the monument to the moon. Use the target clock on the moon monument to summon the eclipse and get the celestial goal. Now, to get out of there without getting lost, go left for Mother?!, then go left twice more, go ahead, then follow the voices. As for sliding, these options are in the same direction. When you leave the garden, everyone will react to the eclipse. The eclipse will remain until you die. At this point, you will meet the All-Mother again and your spellbook will have a crown on it. It's not a permanent upgrade, though. If you don't use it now, you must re-summon the eclipse in order to get the crown. You can also use this video I made to help you get through the garden.
